

THE FIFA CORPORATE MARK

FIFA, the Fédération Internationale de Football Association, was founded on 21 May 1904 in Paris by delegates from France, Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland as the guardian of the world's most cherished sport. It was set up on the initiative of Robert Guérin, the president of the French Association, at the end of an international match between France and Belgium. That's why the name is set in French. The expression "association football" was adopted to distinguish it from rugby football.

The design of the FIFA Corporate Mark is inspired by the role football plays in the world, implying a union between society and the beautiful game. It forms the graphical representation of FIFA's core values: Unity, Performance, Authenticity and Integrity. The social responsibility of FIFA plays a strategic role in the organisation's decisions and represents an important part of FIFA's renewed mission 'Develop the game, touch the world, build a better future.'

With the new slogan 'For the Game. For the World.' which summarises FIFA's mission, the organisation entered a new era on 1 June 2007, one in which football's social responsibility and community will take centre stage.

Football's social responsibility and the resources available now and in the future will enable FIFA to take a giant step forward and make a major contribution to social development through football.

The FIFA Corporate Mark is used to establish a brand association with the FIFA institutional and corporate aspects. To create an association with any of the FIFA Events, Programmes and Campaigns, the respective official emblem or programme logos are used.

Various versions of the FIFA Corporate Mark exist to ensure best possible visibility throughout different reproduction processes.

All reproductions and any use of the FIFA marks without prior written consent are prohibited. All use of the FIFA marks must be submitted for approval to ensure correct use and consistency and are subject to the respective guidelines.
